WHAT WE CALL THE BEGINNING IS OFTEN THE END.
AND TO MAKE AN END IS TO MAKE A BEGINNING.
THE END IS WHERE WE START FROM.

T.S. Eliot

IT'S NOT GOODBYE
LIVING LIFE BEYOND DEATH
BY JUDY THE BARRET-CROXFORD

*It is not creating yourself
It is allowing yourself
Every ounce of potential
Is already inside of you*

*You cannot become
Anything you already aren't
And you don't long for anything
That isn't already part of you*

*Every dream
Every thing
You've ever wanted
Is dormant*

*Sometimes it is pain
And sometimes it is light
That brings it forward*

*I have burned my life down
To the only things that matter
Writing every day
Sleeping and sweating*

A NOTE FROM JUDYTHE

WELCOME, MY BEAUTIFUL FRIEND.

Most people are not looking forward to the Afterlife and at the same time, disregard this life and don't really live. It is that the Afterlife enriches this Life. In fact, this Life and the Afterlife is but ONE larger and complete Life.

There is growing evidence worldwide to support and expand our notions of mortality, offering possibility, hope and comfort to those that have lost their loved one.

My work, I believe, offers help with the struggle of faith, death and the existence of the Afterlife. By understanding our fear of death, we can properly prepare for "The Final Journey".

Could death simply be a transition, that when understood, allows us to live more fully, peacefully and happily in the now? I have spent many years in the Funeral Industry and believe that the service I offer is of enormous assistance to families and always tailored to their specific needs.

Another area that we are conscious of and believe we can be of enormous assistance, is in the area of grief. I am proud to be able to offer a follow up program to assist with grief, long after the funeral service.
